7 Bandits Stage Daring Train Holdup For $956

ROBBERS LOOT SAFE TO GET SMALL BOOTY

First Reports Give Amount Of Loot at $58,000 In Daylight Raid

NUTLEY, N. J., April 17 —(AP)— Seven bandits armed with sawed-off shot-guns and revolvers looted the baggage car safe of an Erie Railroad train today in a daring robbery at a tiny station in the heart of a residential section.

First reports, obtained from Newark detectives, set the amount of loot at $58,000, but subsequent officil information was that the gunmen obtained only $956.55 for their trouble.

The figure came from state police, who said the loot was composed of one $500 package of coins, two $200 packages of coins, one $50 package of bills and another package of $6.55 in coin.

State police said a package of X-ray equipment valued at $50 also was stolen.

Enroute To Bank

Railway Express agency officials said the money was enroute to the Peoples National Bank of Belleville from the Federal Reserve Bank in New York. They said it was carried by train to Paterson and there transferred to the Newark branch of the Erie.

The money was in a safe in the baggage car, directly behind the engineer. It was in the care of the American Railway Express Company.

Newark detectives said the clerk in charge of the money surrendered his revolver when four of the bandits, carrying guns, suddenly confronted him and threatened to kill him unless he opened the safe.

Used Stolen Auto

The robbery was over in a few minutes. The men jumped from the car and leaped into a waiting automobile which police said afterwards had been reported stolen March 27.

William Sutherland, station master, said the train was seven minutes late in arriving at the Walnut street stop. When he went out to meet it, he said, the gunmen emerged from behind bushes surrounding the station.

"Stick 'em up or I'll blow your brains out," Sutherland said the gunman told him.

TYPHOID TRACED

BROOKSIDE, April 17—(AP)—Dr. H. Ludgwig, of the Ohio State Health Department, said today he had traced the source of 11 cases of typhoid fever here to a well used for drinking water after floods crippled the water system of this Belmont County town.

2 BANDITS ROB OHIO BANK OF $1,500 LOOT

Fort Recovery Institution Is Held Up and Three Employes Imprisoned

CELINA, April 17—(AP)—Two men, one carrying a machine gun, robbed the People's Bank at Fort Recovery, 14 miles southwest, of an estimated $1,000 to $1,500 shortly after 10 A. M., today.

George L. Horine, assistant cashier, Marie Brown and Marguerite Schneider, bookkeepers, were held up by the pair, who locked them in a washroom before escaping in an automobile.

"A good looking young fellow wearing brown gloves came in the bank and handed me a $10 bill," Horine said. "He wanted 10 ones and when I gave them to him he pulled out an automatic pistol.

"Then the other fellow, wearing an overcoat and carrying a machine gun, came in.

"They debated taking one of us with them, but decided to lock us in the washroom. They were in the bank less than two minutes."

Horine estimated the loss. He said most of the bank's money was in a vault protected by a time lock.

Garner "Can't Do Half" He'd Like About Policy Of Roosevelt New Deal

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—Senate lobby investigators said today an exchange of letters between Vice President Garner and John Henry Kirby, chairman of the Southern Committee to Uphold the Constitution, had been put into the committee's files.

The letters were subpoenaed from Kirby, whose anti-New Deal organization has been under investigation.

Kirby, under date of July 5, 1935, wrote Garner:

"Personal.

"My Dear John:

"How long are you going to tolerate the apostasy of the Roosevelt administration to the cardinal principles of the Democratic party and the notorious contempt for the plain terms of the Constitution?

"Your friend,

"JOHN KIRBY."

Garner, under date of July 9, replied:

"Dear John Henry:

"Your favor is just called to my attention.

"You can't do everything you want to and I can't do half what I would like to do. You don't control everybody you would like to and I am in a similar fix. I think that answers your question.

"With regards and wishing you health and happiness.

"Sincerely,

"JOHN N. GARNER."

Garner said today he had no comment on the letters.

JURY TAMPERING TO BE INVESTIGATED

Charges To Be Filed Against Persons Implicated

KAHOKA, Mo., April 17—(AP)—St. Louis' "gift from God" baby drama, which folded up suddenly in its road performance here yesterday, appeared today to be due for a quick revival.

Prosecuting Attorney G. R. Breidenstein, of Clark County, announced charges would be filed against all persons found to be implicated in an alleged attempt to tamper with the jury before which Mrs. Nellie Tipton Muench and three others being tried on conspiracy charges.

The prosecutor's statement last night was made after Circuit Judge Walter A. Higbee announced there had been "proof" of jury tampering and declared a mistrial.

WIDOW "LOSES" HER $270 LIFE SAVINGS; FOUND IN UNDERWEAR

CRISFIELD, Md., April 17 —(AP)—Friends and neighbors helped Mrs. Mamie Handy, widow, seek frantically for $270, her life-time savings, all afternoon and night.

She had banked the money in a handkerchief pinned to her clothing, but discovered, after a shopping trip, the handkerchief and pin were ther, the money gone.

Seach ended in the morning. Mrs. Handy found her money had dropped down and had been lodged in her underclothing during the search.

MOTORIST KILLED

CLEVELAND, April 17—(AP)—John F. Rhineberger, 28, of Olena, was fatally injured early today when the automobile in which he was riding struck a safety zone stanchion here.

"SIXTH SENSE" DEVELOPED BY HANDICAPPED STUDENTS

COLUMBUS, April 17—(AP)—Ohio State University's phonetics professor disclosed today results of an experiment with students with defective hearing and speech which she said gave them a "sixth sense" through study of motion pictures.

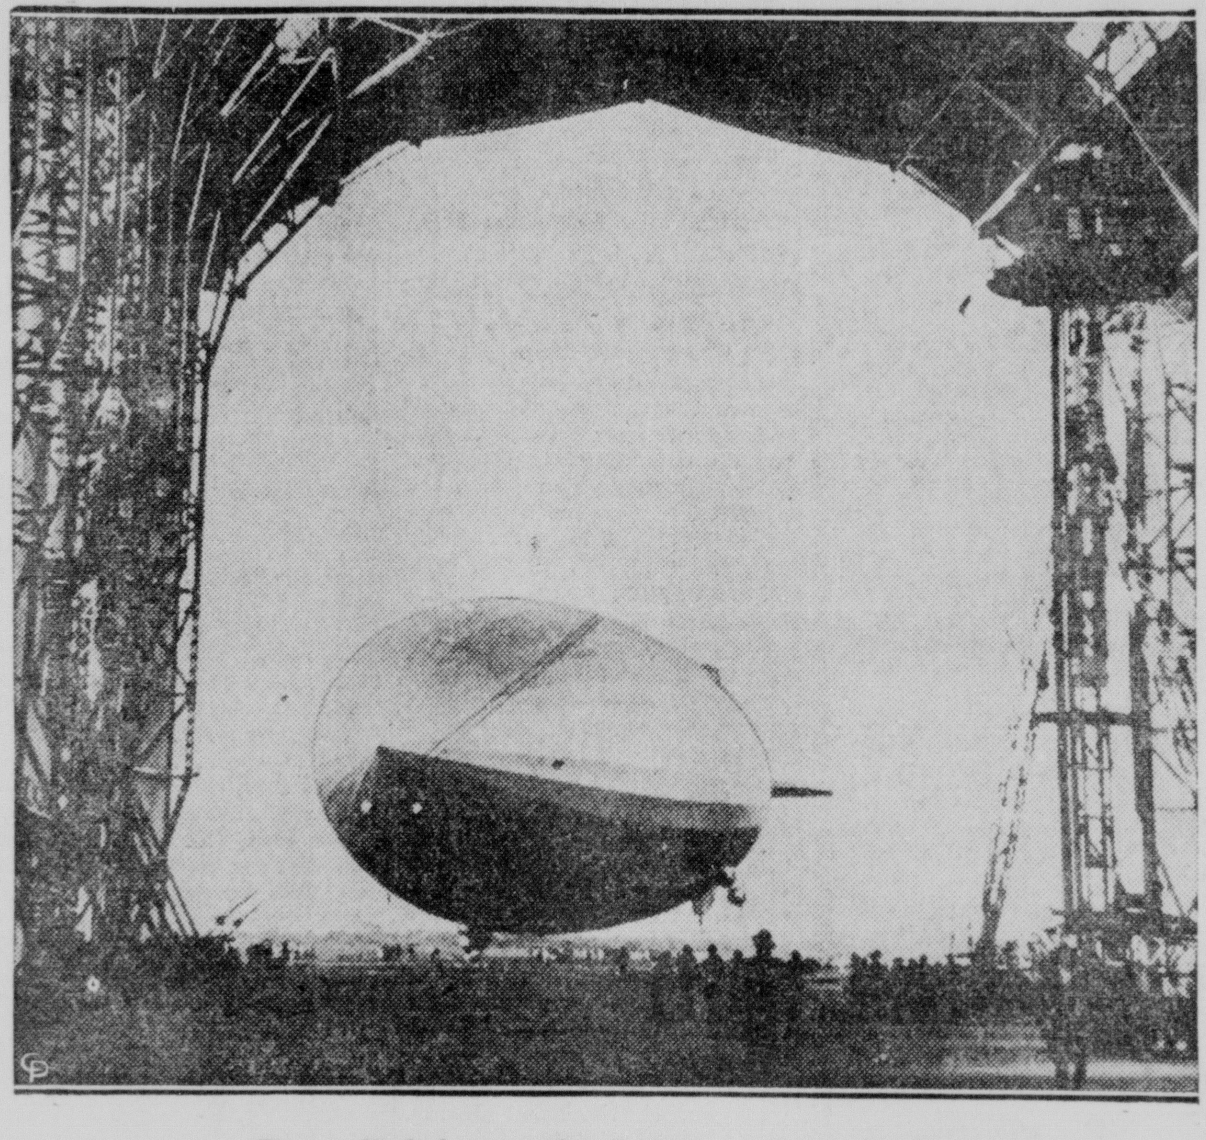
Miss Marie K. Mason called the process "super lip-reading" and said it gave handicapped students "a chance to complete their college education and enter life on a plane with other students not suffering from physical defects."

Simple studies of motion pictures showing Miss Mason pronouncing short sentences containing easily recognizable words start the course. Students later are able to read entire conversations from the screen and to talk to each other without uttering a word.

"The need for training in visual hearing to supplement defective ears was demonstrated by a test of 2,000 freshmen students. Of the 2,000, 527 were found with defective speech, defective hearing, or both," Miss Mason said.

She said 94 per cent. of the students trained in visual hearing made satisfactory grades, while only 10 per cent. of those with defects but not enrolled in the course could do so.

As Newest Zeppelin Nosed Into Hangar At Rio



The von Hindenburg entering the hangar at Rio De Janeiro

The von Hindenburg, new German Zeppelin, has completed her maiden voyage to Rio De Janeiro and return, but Brazilians still are recalling how the massive airship looked when she nosed into the hangar at San Jose field, Rio De Janeiro, as shown above. The Zeppelin, which is scheduled to fly to the U. S. in May, encountered trouble on the return flight, but arrived at Friedrichshafen, her home base, without accident. The hangar above was built especially to accommodate the ship. —Central Press

SUPREME COURT TO DECIDE WPA UTILITY RIGHTS

Right of Government To Give Funds to Public Project To Be Argued

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—Another New Deal case, involving the right of the federal government to provide PWA funds for publicly owned hydroelectric projects, was appealed today to the Supreme Court.

The Duke Power Company and Southern Public Utilities Company appealed from a ruling of the Circuit Court of Appeals at Charlotte, N. C., upholding the action of the government in providing funds for a hydroelectric plant at Buzzard Roost, S. C.

Unless extraordinary measures are taken to spend the case, arguments cannot be heard until the term beginning next October. The government has 30 days in which to reply to the petition for review.

Under present plans, no arguments will be heard after the week beginning April 27.

2 TO BE ARRAIGNED IN CAMPAIGN FRAUD

Accused of Solicitation Of Civil Service Employes

LISBON, April 17—(AP)—Robert S. Weatley, resident state highway engineer, and Jack Rafferty, Salem highway employe, will be arraigned Monday in Common Pleas Court on indictments charging them with soliciting nine civil service employes for Democratic campaign contributions.

The indictments were returned yesterday by the Columbiana County grand jury and filed with Judge W. F. Lones. The indictments charged the two men with "soliciting political assessments" from employes of highway department engineers.

MAN'S SUIT PROTESTS WIFE'S STERILIZATION

CLEVELAND, April 17 — (AP)—Frank Forte, 32 filed yesterday through his attorney a habeas corpus suit for the release of his wife, Mary S. Forte, 21, from the Apple Creek Institute for Feeble-Minded. He protested against a state welfare department ruling that she must submit to sterilization as a condition to her release.

EAST-WEST ROMANCE IN COLUMBUS IS ENDED

COLUMBUS, April 17 — (AP) — Finis finally was written to the East-West romance of a Columbus "dime" store clerk and the foster son of China's president in Domestic Relations Court here yesterday. The court granted Mrs. Viola Brown Lin a divorce from James Lin, former Ohio State University student, after hearing Lin had returned to the Orient September 9 and resumed relations with a former wife. The American girl professed to know nothing about the former wife before her marriage. Her maiden name was restored.

WENDEL IS NEARER RELEASE FROM JAIL

Officials To Decide Bail On Embezzlement Charges

BULLETIN

TRENTON, N. J., April 17 —(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Thomas W. Trenchard today formally dismissed the complaint charging Paul H. Wendel with the murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr.

TRENTON, N. J., April 17—(AP)—Freedom for Paul H. Wendel, who wants to assist Brooklyn, N. Y., authorities in a search for the men he says tortured him into "confessing" he murdered the Lindbergh baby, rested today upon a conference between Mercer County officials and his attorney.

District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, of Brooklyn, said he had been "assured" Wendel would be returned to Brooklyn sometime today.

Wendel was freed by the grand jury of a charge of murdering the baby, and the conference today concerned question of bail on old embezzlement charges.

LEACH NOMINATED

WASHINGTON, April 17—(AP)—President Roosevelt sent to the Senate today the nomination of Earl R. Leach, to be postmaster at Lima, Ohio.

PAIR NABBED IN $1,507,938 U. S. BOND ROBBERY

Two Accused of Theft in New York Are Arrested By Paris Police

PARIS, April 17—(AP) — Police said today they had recovered $440,000 in United States Treasury certificates from two men wanted by United States authorities for the theft of $1,507,938 in securities from a New York bank runner January 28, 1935.

The prisoners gave their names as Bernard Klein, a Hungarian, and Jacob Schwartz, a Czech, and said they were cousins.

The Parisian authorities said they were seeking possible accomplices and requested New York authorities to ask their extradition from France.

MINERS BLAST TO REACH PRISONERS

Trapped Men Expected To Be Freed Soon

MOOSE RIVER, N. S., April 17 —(AP)—John Hennigar, blasting expert, said today that one more blast will permit rescuers to reach what may be a clear passage to the 141-foot level of the Moose River gold mine where three men have been trapped since Sunday night.

A big scoop crane worked for hours digging out debris from a terrific blast at 2 A. M. which tore a hole in the shaft eight feet deep and almost 20 feet wide.

Work also was forging ahead on two other fronts but the concentration was on the Meagher slope, through which Dr. D. E. Robertson, H. G. Magill and Charles Alfred Scadding will be rescued if they are still alive.

HERE'S BLOW FOR SCIENCE; UNTRAINED TWIN IS "BOSS"

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—Johnny and Jimmy Woods, the "scientific twins," held a celebration today on the eve of their fourth birthday, and Jimmy boasted, "I'm boss."

Jimmy is the twin who received no special training during the scientific experiment in which the pair figured. Johnny was trained from birth, under the guidance of leading physicians and psychologists.

"I'm the boss. Isn't that right, Johnny?" the untrained twin demanded.

"No," said the scientifically conditioned Johnny; then noting the baleful glare in Jimmy's eye, he hastily added:

"I mean 'yes.' Jimmy's the boss."

AFRICANS TURN DOWN FASCIST PEACE TERMS

Authorities in Rome Assert Mussolini Intends To Smash Ethiopia

BLACKSHIRTS RIDE SOUTH

On Way To Take Addis Ababa, Ethiopia's Capital, And Finish Campaign

(By the Associated Press)

The League of Nations conciliation committee decided today that efforts to bring peace to East Africa have failed and called a special council session Monday to review developments in the Italo-Ethiopian war.

The committee's decision followed flat rejection by the Ethiopian delegation of Italy's offer to negotiate an armistice.

Demands Direct Parley

The Italian offer demanded direct negotiations between the two nations' military commands, with Italy treating Ethiopia as a vanquished nation, and with no interference by the League.

As a modification to this offer, Italy suggested it would permit League observers to keep in close touch with negotiations.

Having refused the first offer Thursday, the Ethiopians also turned down the "modification."

While diplomats argued at Geneva about peace, authoritative sources in Rome stated that Italy intends to go ahead with its scientific military smashing of Ethiopia.

To Crush Nation

This attitude was intimated at the seat of the League of Nations where an Italian spokesman said his government was willing to declare an armistice in its war with Ethiopia, but only after the Italian high command had the situation so well in hand that there would be no danger of any militant reaction on the part of the Ethiopians.

An Italian column, mounted on motor trucks and in tanks, meanwhile were believed to be moving southward from Dessye over the 175 miles of road to Addis Ababa.

Ethiopian government officials said the motorized column would experience no pleasure trip on the grounds that much of the road had been washed away by tropical rains and that many of the wooden bridges over the deep mountain gorges had been destroyed.

Silent On Defense

The Ethiopian official did not, however, assert that the Italians would find any strong armed force opposing them in their last drive on the capital.

France, which throughout the recurrent crisis has been torn between desire to befriend both Italy and Great Britain, addressed what was called "a supreme appeal" to Premier Mussolini to cease hostilities long enough to make the discussion of peace possible.

The Italian answer was that it was up to the high command in Ethiopia to decide on armistice.

Great Britain, constantly on the alert against a spread of hostilities from the east African battlefront, raised the strength of its fleet in the Mediterranean to the highest point yet achieved.

"WOMAN IN RED" TO OPPOSE DEPORTATION

Plans Personal Appeal To Secretary Perkins

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Sage, the "woman in red" who accompanied John Dillinger on his date with death, planned today a personal appeal to Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins in a final effort to escape deportation.

Mrs. Sage said she would ask the secretary to void the order for her eviction from the country on the grounds that her "services" in eliminating the nation's No. 1 outlaw offset the offense forming the basis of her deportation.

MRS. VALLEE IS SEEKING MORE THAN $100 WEEKLY

NEW YORK, April 17—(AP)—The appellate division upheld today a decision denying Mrs. Fay Webb Vallee the right to break a $100 a week separation agreement so that she might demand a larger income from her husband, Rudy Vallee.

THEATERS

At The LaMax

This is a saga of the old West filled with wagon trains, herds of cattle, marauding bandits and singing vigilantes, and has all the ingredients of a successful outdoor action picture.

The story deals with a group of "Singing Riders" led by a young Westerner in search of the outlaws who killed his parents and kidnapped his brother. Protecting the slow-moving covered wagons against the onslaught of vicious desperadoes, the vigilantes form the only law in the new territory settled by the pioneers. After a number of gripping battles with the bandits, the young man avenges the death of his father and mother and finds his long-lost brother.

And here is news for the entire family—about a motion picture for the entire family! Beginning Sunday, the LaMax will play "Timothy's Quest," the screen play from the great novel by Kate Douglas Wiggin which has been a favorite with two generations of readers. This moving tale of two forlorn children and their search for the home and love that had been denied them becomes one of the tenderest and most touching pictures of the year on the screen. The cast includes Dickie Moore and Virginia Weidler.

How Inflation Hurts Farmer

Period of False Prosperity Is Always Followed by Distress.

By WALTER E. SPAHR
Secretary, Economists National Committee on Monetary Policy and Member of the National Advisory Council of the American Liberty League.

While currency inflation is taking place some classes appear to benefit, notably the farmer. For this reason the principal farm leaders are advocating currency inflation. Drives for currency inflation in this country have been, and are today, to a large extent agrarian movements. The benefits in the case of the farmer, as with other classes, are apparent and not real. They fade into dismal disaster.

Several important factors contribute to the relatively favorable position given the farmer by currency inflation. The prices of his products rise rapidly. At the same time he tends to hold his expenses per unit of product down for a considerable time. He delays buying new equipment. He does not add to his investments in land or buildings. He holds down his labor supply. These things give the farmer an unusual and most welcome margin of profit with which to pay his debts.

Accumulates Debts.

After these debts are paid, however, he will begin to consider ways and means of expansion. He will restore his depreciated property, buy new equipment, increase his number of employees, and perhaps purchase new buildings and land. When he begins buying he will find that the prices are rising rapidly or have risen to startling heights. To buy before prices rise further will seem prudent. The tendency to borrow in order to buy will increase. Thus as inflation continues farm debts will mount steadily.

The burden and distress associated with old debts will be forgotten. The steadily rising prices of agricultural products will appear to provide ample assurance that all is well. The more the currency is inflated the higher the prices will rise and the greater will be the amount of new debts accumulated.

Conditions After 1920.

Then comes the headache. In time the inflation of the currency will come to an end, prices will collapse, and the dangers and burdens of the debts will become painfully apparent. Enforced liquidation will begin its destructive course. Distress and suffering will become widespread. Farmers will realize then that once again they are living through the hard times which invariably follow an inflation.

The difficulties which farmers have experienced since the collapse of 1920 have been due largely to the credit inflation which took place during the World war and to the related maladjustments which the war and inflation generated. Periods of falling prices and liquidation are almost invariably caused by a receding period of currency inflation. Therefore to urge inflation as a means of overcoming the distress of depression is but to prepare the way for another period of distress.

DAVEY "CONFIDENT" OF HIS REELECTION

Governor Says Young Like "Immortal Finnegan"

STEUBENVILLE, April 17—(AP)—Governor Martin L. Davey told a gathering of Democrats here last night that he was not worried about the primary and was confident of re-election.

His primary opponent, Congressman Stephen M. Young, of Cleveland, was invited to address the meeting, but did not appear. Davey said Young, who for many weeks was undecided about entering the campaign, was like the immortal Finnegan.

"He's 'out again, in again, gone again, Finnegan.' " Davey said.

YOUTHS CHARGED WITH AUTO THEFTS

Arrested in Highland County For Springfield Police

Two Springfield youths, Frank Baker, 16, and Elwood Flora, 15, who are alleged to have stolen automobiles in Springfield and Greenfield, were arrested by Sheriff H. U. Miller, of Highland County, Wednesday night and turned over to Springfield officers.

One of the stolen automobiles was recovered by Sheriff Frank Setty on U. S. Route 68, near Midland City. It was owned by C. E. Shewalter, of Springfield. The youths abandoned it when the gasoline supply became exhausted.

A second car, alleged to have been stolen at Greenfield, was wrecked near that city, officers said.

HOPKINS FACES ATTACK ON WPA SHARE OF FUND

Legislators Seek To Hurry Final Drafting of New Tax Program

WASHINGTON, April 17 — (AP) —Fearing that prolonged discussions over taxes and relief may jeopardize their plans to adjourn Congress by June 1, leaders today sought ways and means to hurry things.

The $799,000,000 tax program was still in a House committee room, with legislators making changes in a tentative draft. The presidential request for $1,500,000 for relief for next year also remained in the committee stage.

Upsurging House members, irked by the word that Harry L. Hopkins' WPA would get the bulk of the relief money and that none would be devoted to Secretary Ickes' program of costlier, more permanent construction, announced they would carry a fight on WPA straight to the White House.

Hopkins' name was in the news in two other connections also. Last night he fired George H. Gannon, WPA administrator in Washington state, on the ground that political contributions were collected from the Works Progress staff there. More dismissals will follow, Hopkins said.

WHAT'S WHAT AT A GLANCE
WASHINGTON - WORLD

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The latest campaign to get Uncle Sam into the League of Nations has not made much progress yet, but it will attract increasing attention as advocates of the plan get more and more effectively into action.

The suggestion is British and the British are brilliant propagandists.

They may not attain their objective in this instance, but it never is safe to bet that they will not get what they want when they make up their minds to do so. They will make a formidable effort anyway.

American public opinion undoubtedly assesses the league as a fizzle at present. However, American public opinion was dead against going into the World war when it started. Nevertheless the allies needed us, the British did the propagandizing and in due course we were converted.

* * *

JOHN BULL'S REASONING

His interest is against Italy's in Ethiopia, where Mussolini evidently has practically won his war with Haile Selassie, and seems likely to gain control of the Nile headwaters, threatening British-controlled Egypt's irrigation system, besides digging himself in at a strategic point on Britain's road to the Far East.

With France's support the British probably could checkmate Italy, but the French are unwilling to offend the Italians, believing that they may require their help against Germany. Moreover, also, as insurance against German aggression, they are tied up in an alliance with Russia, which is one of John Bull's bugbears.

By force of circumstances, Britain now is mildly pro-German, but Germany has not sufficiently recovered from the last war to be a very dependable partner.

BRITAIN'S PLIGHT

John Bull, then, is perilously almost alone in the midst of an ominous-looking situation. What he wants is, not so much Uncle Sam's participation in the League of Nations, as Uncle Sam for an ally.

And, together in the league, John Bull and Uncle Sam doubtless WOULD be a party against the other league members, by reason of common traditions and a common language. If it came to an intra-league clash, presumably they would be united against the remainder of the league membership—and it is quite possible that Uncle Samuel would be the deciding factor, as he was in the World war.

By LESLIE EICHEL
Central Press Staff Writer

THIS PROBABLY will be the biggest tourist year in the history of America.

There is more money flowing than at any time since 1929. And in 1936 the farmers have more money than in 1929. Thus, millions of farmers will tour by auto.

Additional tens of thousands will travel by plane.

In fact, it will be the most remarkable movement of people ever recorded. More than 127,000,000 people will be on the move, not because of war or famine—but merely because they desire to enjoy a respite from daily drudgery.

City people will go to obtain a first-hand view of nature. Country folk (are there any left?) will gaze upon the man-made wonders of the large cities.

* * *

A PROBLEM

All that, it would seem, would bring pleasurable anticipation. But there is one group that is gloomy—the professional politicians.

If people will be on the move all summer long, how will they be reached with political arguments—even via the radio?

Persons out for a holiday are in no mood to hear exhortations.

Transportation lines, oil companies automobile manufacturers, lunch room operators will have a windfall—but politicians will have a headache.

* * *

SERIOUS

From his point of view, the politician cannot look upon the situation with levity.

He will be on the front page and the radio with the national conventions—in June—then, presto, his audience will disperse in a joyous mood to the four points of the compass.

How can an orator impress happy-going folk that the world will come to an end if the opposite political party wins?

And, by the time the holiday has ended, it will be election day—almost.

And, maybe, some persons won't even know who is running.

* * *

RESULT

Well, as a result of all this, politicians may hasten to spots toward which tourists head—and try to acquaint citizens there upon the dangers confronting the nation.

It will be a merry chase.

And it looks as if the newspaper from the old home town still will play its vital part—for a home town newspaper has the habit of keeping up with the vacationist.

GARDEN GOSSIP
by PETER HENDERSON

Planting

IN DIGGING your ground, go deep. The aeration and breaking up is of inestimable value to your garden. Proper preparation of the soil means deep-rooted plants. Do not, however, go below the good soil level.

* * * *

THE HOUSE is the one permanent part of your home property. All of the trees and such other plantings should be placed so as to make a desirable picture as a whole. The picture can be spoiled as easily by too much as too little growth.

* * * *

INSTEAD OF USING labels, make a map of your garden. Indicate the perennials and fill in around them with annuals. The map will be useful when you are planning next year's garden.

* * * *

WITH ROCK GARDENS, avoid making it look like an exhibition area. The most attractive rock gardens are natural to the extreme and look as though they "just happened."

* * * *

PLANT LITTLE GROUPS of five or six gladioli through your garden. Do this in May or June as you find little unexpected bare spots in your garden.

* * * *

IF YOU ALLOW the exposed roots of your plants and shrubs to become dry they will inevitably die. If you cannot set them out as soon as received, be sure that they are kept well watered.

* * * *

PROPER FOUNDATION planting is very important for it can make the small house look larger and soften the bigness of the large house.

* * * *

SOME FARMERS follow the the fruit trees for time of planting. When the peach buds begin to swell plant peas, radishes, lettuce, onion sets, carrots and turnips.

* * * *

WHEN THE apple blossoms begin to come out, plant corn, beans, pumpkins, melons and squash. When the petals fall plant tomatoes, peppers and eggplants.

* * * *

THE BEST TIME to transplant Lilacs is in the fall. Do not let your Lilacs blossom the first year after transplanting. Pick off the flower bud and they will flower much better later on.

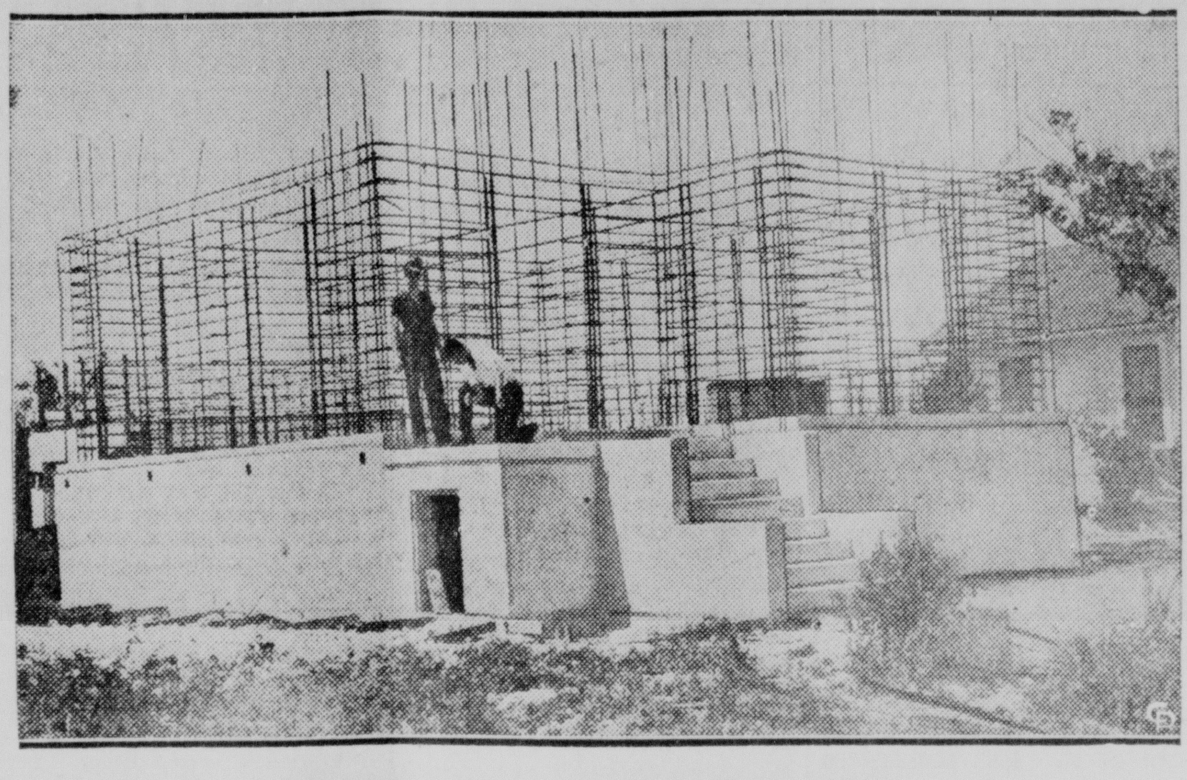
GOVERNMENT BUILDS STEEL HOUSES IN STORM AREA



One of the steel houses being built at Matacumbe Key

Hoping to prevent future disasters in the Florida Keys, similar to the one last autumn in which many persons lost their lives in a hurricane, the federal government is building "stonewall" houses on the Keys. Here is one of the houses at Matacumbe Key, being built with a framework of steel. According to construction engineers, the houses will be able to withstand tornadic winds.

SPANISH CUSTOM

Values of the monarchial forms of government in Europe are disclosed by the present conditions. Without this firm anchorage to a family or an individual the people seem to confront one of two contingencies. Either an autocratic dictatorship rises to suppress all liberties, as in Russia, Italy and Germany, or the volatile temperament of the masses and parliaments create constant uncertainties, as in Spain, France, Greece until recently, and some of the Balkan lands. European countries, with all of their traditions and history, are showing they may be even less stable than the young Latin nations.

Under the rule of the throne Spain became one of the mighty empires of the earth, but in the last century it has descended the scale with the decadence of monarchy and the growth of democracy. Finally came the overthrow on April 14, 1931, of the weak King Alfonso, the establishment of the Spanish republic.

The government has been none too happy since, what with revolutionary disturbances and changes. President Niceto Alcala Zamora dissolved the last parliament, a procedure permitted by the constitution, but in return the new parliament declared his act was illegal and he was removed from the presidency. This is regarded as a victory for the left wingers and will add to the troubles of Spain in its efforts to progress as a republic.

These fluctuations in Europe serve to increase our admiration for the remarkable constitution under which the United States was founded, with its checks and balances. There is no equal to it in the world. It is a secure anchor for democracy and liberty in all the political and economic storms. No true friend of America or the republic would attack that document or endeavor to weaken the principles which it has sustained for 150 years. Autocracy and revolts may be old Spanish customs but they are not American, and they are prevented by the constitution; they will be averted just so long as we remain attached to that platform.

POLITICS VS. ECONOMICS

The Washington politicians would have us believe that they have found, in this election year, a "painless" tax; that they are going to sock business and leave the rest of us alone.

That sounds awfully good. We all realize that a $35,000,000,000 federal debt must be paid sometime and, naturally, we are quite willing for the other fellow to pay it. But let's look into this thing a little.

Stiff taxes on a mill that makes overalls do not seem to bother anybody but the mill's manager. Yet when the taxes are levied, the overall mill manager has three courses before him:

1. He can reduce the profits paid to stockholders;

2. He can cut the wages of workers in the mill;

3. He can pass the tax along to the man who buys the overalls.

People won't invest money in one plant that pays them only 2 per cent. when they can get 4 or 5 some place else, so the first alternative is out.

Actually there is only one source of revenue—the consumer. Already, though he may not know it, the average individual is working two days a week to pay the costs of government. He cheers because he pays no income taxes. But his loaf of bread bears 53 taxes before he eats it.

The insidious thing is that voters make no real squawk about the frittering away of billions so long as they do not realize they are providing the money. And the money fritterers are afraid, for the time being, to admit that everybody pays the bill.

Ground Out By "Dusty" Miller

A LETTER from Carrie Ent, in her ample, flowing handwriting, cheering in itself. The hand that guides her pen guided hundreds of little hands with pens for years and years, and to have been guided by Miss Ent was a blessing to their lives. A lovely lady.

A LETTER from Rev. Kellerman, Blanchester divine, to the Columbus Dispatch, tells about a roadside mishap and of the hundreds that "passed by on the other side" until a lowly truck driver halted and helped. Nothing about the incident of the Master's story of the neighbor must have been so impressive to the Galilean audience as His making the despised Samaritan the hero of it. But He had a way of speaking like nobody else ever did! And our Blanchester friend finds the truck driver, in ill repute among motorists because they say he won't turn out, and he "hogs" the road, and can't even hear your horn . . . he becomes the Samaritan of his story.

A LETTER from Mary Spencer Hohl, correspondent for 38 years to the Toledo Blade and the village paper in her home town. Her father was a country doctor for 50 years, and from such a life she draws philosophies in her writings. A glorious woman to meet; sunshine in her face and glory in her soul. "Man alive!" she exclaims in the letter, "my grandson has been playing with my typewriter again!" She has read in the Toledo Blade that Dusty Miller has been invited to speak at the three largest high schools in the city at commencement exercises on consecutive nights, which inspires Mary to write to ask him to speak in her community next February. I am replying if I am anywhere next February, I'll sure be in Perrysburg.

A LETTER from Orrin Taylor, ne plu ultra country editor, in Archbold, whose village newspaper again, as for years and years, took the national prize. "The commencement crowd will be the largest in history," he assures me . . . A LETTER from Dick Van Valer, Gas City journalist. In the fall of 1910, I dropped into the Gas City Journal office, and the young editor told me about a new baby at his home, and I went with him for peeping-into-baby-buggy purposes. Which all goes to show what 26 years will do, for the baby I peeped at in 1910 is inviting me in his letter to take a peep at HIS baby. OK, little feller, prepared to be peeped at! . . . A LETTER from the secretary of the national cemetery association, how-abouting the dinner at the national convention next fall. Friends ask me sometimes: "What kind of affairs do you speak to?" I run from incubators to cemeteries.

New York Day By Day

—By— O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, April 17—Thoughts while strolling: The real New York people rarely hear about: When everything is going well it treats you casually. But let misfortune come and it's right on your door step to help. Add dramatically expressive hands—Claudette Colbert's.

Whatever became of Natacha Rambova? No one can zoom into a room like Herbert Bayard Swope. Or arrive so mouse-like as Sam H. Harris. Lawrence Tibbett has the most boyish speaking voice on the radio. In one year Major Bowes has become, next to the president, the best-known American.

Look alikes: Paul Muni and Grover Whelan. When tastier dishes are devised, Bruno Lessing will write about them. Scarcely a pompadour left if anything happened to George S. Kaufman's. Every columnist would like to hit the bull's eye as regularly as Percy Crosby does with his cartoon.

No one could be quite so innocent as wide eyed Peter Arno appears. Wonder if the advertising men Bill Mennen and Phil Lennen ever met? That superb public air of Nicholas Murray Butler. Be interesting to watch Gene Tunney dining at Dempsey's. Achmed Abdullah's jerky grin.

Poor Paul McCullough! For years depressed over being a stooge. Theodore Dreiser window shopping—and munching an apple. Fitting preacher name: Christian F. Reisner. Gilbert Seldes might be a philosophical mayor in Brittany. Ed Sullivan thinks Ernest Hemingway a crack name for a Wodehouse butler.

The pin games mushrooming with all the upshoot of midget golf have shown great durability—but many believe they are edging the predicted debacle. In a year's time the promoters gobbled up practically every available high-priced corner along mid-town Broadway. Concessions were granted in the manner of the street carnival, and business boomed. Even stormy evenings they were packed. But for some weeks business has been on the dwindle and there have been legal interferences, too. Gambling routs. So many believe the end is in sight.

The dusky Josephine Baker proved what the drama critics contended on her stage debut here, i. e. that she is lost on a big stage and needed intimacy of a small room for her birdlike voice and snakey wriggles. Her new club—where she does exhibition dances with white boys—opened auspiciously. And whereas her revue performances were pretty much flops she became for a time at least a "night club draw."

The most popular night club hostess New York has ever known was, of course, Texas Guinan, with Helen Morgan a runner-up. For a short haul Justine Johnson at her Little Club brought out the minkiest and top hatted crowd. Harry Richman established the all time high for male cabaret performers as an attraction at a Club named for him several years ago. And, of course, at the moment the Milwaukee-born old timer, Benny Fields has outdistanced the pack in a cake walk prance with silk hat aloft. A happy gesture toward a sky that for him a few weeks ago was as black as ink!

So far as I recall my first night club experience in New York was at Risenweber's in Columbus Circle. Sophie Tucker was an attraction, but in those days slightly overshadowed by Doraldino, who died the other day. She was first of the hula dancers, a Hawaiian from Muncie, Ind., and her wiggles were considered a bit naughty in those hallowed days. Among those pointed out to me by my cicerone were Mae Murray, the Dolly Sisters, Foxhall Keene, Nils Florman and Larry and Monty Waterbury, the polo stars.

John Steinberg, now tickling the Hollywood palate, was in charge of Reisenweber's. And stay-outs remained there until 3 A. M., then slipped—or staggered-up Broadway a few steps to Bustanoby's tiny Black and White room. It was the vogue of the Castles, and they usually dropped in to do "a Castle walk" and Vernon would relax at the drums. At dawn those with fortitude went to Tom Healey's at 66th and Broadway, where the morning bud of gaiety was just bursting into flower.

I'm one of the nit-wits who stops, turns to watch and chuckles when some unfortunate's hat is swept off by a sudden gale. It happened today at the windy corner of 57th and Broadway. And to a fat man who waddled. He retrieved it almost at my feet. To make him feel comfortable, I observed: "Montaigne said no one could feel romantic chasing his hat," Snapped he: "You are not so hot a dream prince yourself standing still."

THE CAMDEN RUBY MURDER

by ADAM BLISS

COPYRIGHT—RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:

Margalo Younger, an actress, is found murdered in the home of Dow Van Every, a collector of rare jewels, with a sharp needle-like instrument at the base of her brain. The only persons in the room at the time of the murder were Van Every, whom she had just met, and Gary Maughan, old friend of hers and an acquaintance of Van Every. Against his wishes, she had been wearing Van Every's famous Camden ruby, which he described as a "murder stone", as he recounted its gruesome history to his audience of two. Detective Keyes questions Maughan, Van Every, the latter's niece, Joyce, who lives in the house, and her elderly companion, Laura Randall. Maughan, who is anxious to help solve the murder, learns from Margalo's maid that a Roy Barrimore has called on the dead actress frequently. Maughan then goes to Detective Keyes' office for further questioning. The detective call in Allan Foster, Joyce's fiance, for questioning. Keyes and Maughan learn that Foster at one time was in love with the dead actress. Laura Randall calls on Detective Keyes to volunteer some information.

(NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY)

CHAPTER 17

"MR. VAN EVERY evidently has no sympathy with Joyce's working ambitions?" observed Keyes.

"She'll break him down yet about going to business college," said Laura Randall. "I know she will. In the end she always gets what she wants. Now, he's against it, also the working idea she has. I can't see why a girl who has everything in the world could possibly want to work. Girls weren't like that in my day."

"Mr. Van Every approves of the engagement between Foster and his niece?"

"Very much so, much to my grief. I have begged him many times to stop it. Wait at least until Miss Joyce is a little older."

I thought I could see Van Every's attitude. Anything to settle Joyce. For she must be, as Miss Randall kept insisting, a hard girl to handle. The job angle—it seemed rather silly of Van Every to thwart. Girls were different these days. And if Joyce wanted to work, to earn her own living, it was only right to let her try.

"Then, Mr. Keyes," Miss Randall went on, "those Chinamen in the house. That queer Soon. I don't trust him. I don't, and never will. He snoops around. Pries. I wouldn't be surprised if he was the one that murdered Miss Younger. I don't trust him, and I know, Captain Keyes."

"Why?"

"Oh, I can't just explain. He walks around the house so quietly. You can't ever hear him. Even I can't. And he never talks. If he does, it's only 'yes', and 'no'."

"You didn't see him on the stairs last night?"

"No, I didn't, but I've no doubt that he was there! I can't see why an intelligent man like Mr. Van Every can have him around. You'd think, knowing Mr. Van Every, that he'd have a fine butler, one that would do him honor, and decent, clean servants. I've told this to Mr. Van Every many times, and he only smiles. Never agrees to get a nice household of servants."

"How did you happen to find your place in the household?"

"I answered an ad of Mr. Van Every's two years ago. He pays me well—and I keep my eyes shut about certain things, for, much as I like Mr. Van Every, there are things about him I cannot approve."

"What are they, Miss Randall?"

Her lips shut in a straight line, and her eyes narrowed.

"I've kept this to myself for two years, and I don't intend to tell it now."

"How did you find out—this secret?"

"Over the telephone. Oh—I might as well tell you, Captain Keyes. I see that. It may help you solve this murder." She paused and again looked at the door.

"No one will find out where this came from," Keyes said kindly.

"I hope not," she sighed, "for I've kept it for two years, never even told Miss Joyce. Mr. Van Every has a woman friend in whom he is interested!" There was something triumphant about the way she made this announcement. For the first time, she settled back in her chair, and rested her back.

"Who is she?"

"A woman named Bryce. Edith Bryce. Soon is the only other person in the house who knows of her. At least that's what I think. Mr. Van Every is very careful about Mrs. Bryce—probably on account of Joyce. I know he doesn't want Joyce to know that he is in love at his advanced age.

"You are sure he is in love with Mrs. Bryce?"

"I'm quite sure. By accident when I had been in the house a few weeks I heard him talk to her over the telephone. And I found out."

I thought Keyes was going to ask how she had found out but he didn't. I smiled. Certainly nothing went on in Van Every's house that Laura Randall didn't know. I wondered then why Van Every kept her on. He must know her ferreting ways. I suppose they amused him. And she might be the ideal companion for Joyce.

"Have you ever seen Mrs. Bryce?"

"I saw her once on the street." With that, she gave Keyes the address of the woman. He carefully made a note of it.

"Now Miss Randall," he continued, "I want you to do something for me. Anything you see at the house that is suspicious, will you phone me? Or better yet, come here to see me."

"I will, Captain Keyes. Glad to." She arose slowly and opened her mouth as if she still had something more to say. She was going through the door Keyes had opened for her before she said it. "I think, Captain Keyes—I think that you should take the ruby out of the house. Put it in a bank somewhere. It isn't safe there—for any of us—with the ruby about."

"You're not afraid, Miss Randall?"

"No, but I'd feel safer if it were gone."

"I'll do my best."

"Thank you. Mrs. Bryce—knows something about the ruby!"

We watched her go through the anteroom and open that door. Then she was gone. Keyes came back and sat down. "Peculiar woman," he vouchsafed.

"Very."

"She'll solve the mystery if anyone does. Did you know Van Every was in love?"

"No, I didn't. I haven't seen him for years."

Keyes started to look over some papers on his desk and I sat musing in my chair. Who would have thought that a casual acquaintance five years ago would bring about—this?

For I had met Van Every casually. I was alone in Florence, dawdling around, half vacationing, half working. Certainly not doing any good work because I was tired. I had come from Africa, a year's stay there, and at Marseilles had tossed a coin to decide whether I should go to Brindisi or Florence, for three months. Florence it had been and I had bought my ticket there, and arranged for my reservations at a small hotel which had been recommended by a friend. The hotel was not what I expected it to be, and after two days, I was thinking of leaving. Where, I didn't know. Not Brindisi, because I imagined I would be as disappointed with it as I was with Florence. Perhaps it was nerves, I don't know. I'll blame it on nerves anyway.

The second day in Florence I happened in on a small shop, and was about to buy a cameo when a man, Van Every, he later turned out to be, advised me not to. An obvious fake, he told me quietly. I took his advice. I knew nothing about cameos, but this one had seemed very pretty, and I had been in the buying mood. I was disappointed. We strolled away together, sat down and lunched. Then, as I remember, we took a long walk. It was dusk before we had exchanged names, but we had talked for hours together. That night I had dinner at his villa, and my stay in Florence brightened. Van Every was interesting. He urged me to come to the Villa Maurin, which I did after a week. And I spent a month there, idling, talking to my host, getting a better swing at my nerves.

I hated to leave. The Villa Maurin was entirely too comfortable. I would have liked to stay there forever. But there was my work. It had to be done. I started it later in Paris, and wrote several notes to Van Every, which he answered. After that, our correspondence ceased as a desultory correspondence will.

I can't conceive how rapidly my month went by at the Villa Maurin. It always has seemed to me like a short day. Perhaps it was because I was tired, my nerves shot—and suddenly I came to myself, realizing I was well, and no work would get done if I dawdled there.

There came a low buzz of a phone at Keyes' elbow. I watched him take up the receiver, heard him answer and then his voice again became alert, rasping. The call must be important.

He turned to me when he finished. "Neff phoning from Barrimore's apartment downtown. He just returned, Barrimore, and when he saw the officers in his place—they had obtained the key from the landlord for a thorough search—he shot himself. Neff called the ambulance, and is rushing him to St. Vincent's. Barrimore came in distraught, as if he were greatly worried. Didn't say a word, but when he saw my men, pulled his gun, and shot himself. So that's that, I guess. Self-confession."

I said nothing. If Roy Barrimore was Margalo's murderer, I was glad he had the decency to shoot himself. Everything now pointed to this conclusion. His strange actions, for although I had never seen the man, his behavior had been queer. Yesterday coming up to Margalo's apartment, demanding of Mrs. Peoples where she was. Calling Van Every, if it was really he who called, then in the early morning hours coming to see me, phoning me at the Warrington, making an appointment with me that he failed to keep. The gesture at his apartment.

A JOE HOOKER INCIDENT

Major General Joseph Hooker, a member of the official party escorting President Lincoln's body to Springfield, Ill., for burial, sounded the only discordant note in the funeral services held for Lincoln in Columbus on April 29, 1865. He was known to be bluff and brusque and he lived up to his reputation that day.

After the main oration of the day there was a call for "Hooker." This display of political practice on such a solemn occasion grated on the nerves of the crowd and General Hooker and he administered a justly deserved rebuke.

He said, "My friends, I thank you for the compliment you pay me by your call. If I do not respond by remarks you will ascribe it to the inappropriateness of the occasion. Your call was dictated by curiosity as much as to hear a speech from me; that I grant you. Further you will excuse me."

HOW GOOD IS MY PARTNER?

A CAREFUL PLAYER continually has to ask himself: "How good is my partner?" It makes lots of difference in how high you dare push bidding, whether partner is or is not able to squeeze the last trick from the joint cards of his side. Also it makes lots of difference whether you can or cannot trust partner's bids. Judging from West's confidence in his partner he must have valued East highly, especially as their side was vulnerable.

North: ♠ J 10 9 6 5 ♥ A 10 8 3 ♦ 10 3 ♣ 10 8

West: ♠ A Q ♥ Q 7 6 ♦ A K 8 ♣ K Q J 5 2

East: ♠ K 8 4 3 ♥ K 9 4 2 ♦ 7 5 2 ♣ 9 4

South: ♠ 7 2 ♥ J 5 ♦ Q J 9 6 4 ♣ A 7 6 3

Bidding went: West, 1-Club; East, 1-No Trump, using the negative response which shows the equal of at least 2 Kings; South, 2-Diamonds, intended to slow up his vulnerable opponents, as his side was not vulnerable; West, 3-No Trumps, knowing that probably it would be useless to expect partner to rebid, ending the auction.

The opening lead was the Q of diamonds, and South was allowed to hold the trick. Of course North ducked his 10, to reassure partner concerning its location. Dummy's K captured the 4 of diamonds. Both declarer and leader knew that North held no more of the suit. Declarer had to risk that South did not hold both the Ace and 10 of clubs. He led a low club which North's 10 took. North led back the J of spades, which dummy's Q took. The K of clubs was allowed to hold the next trick, as if South wanted to see his partner's next discard before winning with his Ace of clubs. The Q of clubs was led. North let go his lowest heart, whereupon South led back a spade, hoping that partner held the missing K of spades and a heart reentry. Evidently his faith in East's bidding was less than West possessed.

Dummy's two good clubs were led. North let go two spades. Declarer discarded two hearts. South had to let go one of his diamonds, which he never would have done had he held the Ace of hearts. Then dummy's Ace of diamonds was led. North let go another heart. A low heart was led from dummy. North played low and declarer's K won the trick. Declarer took his K of spades for his ninth and game-going trick, then he led his 9 of hearts, that North's Ace took for defenders' fourth trick.

Looking over the play carefully, note that probably declarer will go down on his contract unless he leads a low club, instead of leading high from clubs and establishing two stops to the suit in South's hand. More than anything else that play showed East's ability as a player.

Recognition of Deafness In Childhood Important

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

FOR CENTURIES the deafened patient was considered a hopeless problem. A child of school age who could not hear was usually placed in the dunce class or else relegated to seclusion which made life almost unbearable. The problem was medical, social and economic.

Dr. Clendening

The most important feature of the medical problem is to recognize deafness in childhood, to clear up such relatively simple things as chronic discharging ears, before changes have occurred which result in advanced deafness. It has been estimated that there are three million deafened children in the United States of school age, many of whom could have been improved or cured if the deafness were detected at an early age. It can safely be asserted that there are that many deafened adults.

In a clinic for hard of hearing children, careful treatment resulted in improvement in about 60 per cent and an actual cure in a great many who may have become permanently deafened adults.

Conclusions Reached

Certain conclusions have been reached from this and other studies: (1) That deafness is not always due to the ear alone. A painstaking general physical examination has to be made. (2) Sinus disease of the nose in childhood is extremely prevalent in deafened children, and must be cured if one wishes to improve the hearing. (3) Nutritional factors are of extreme importance in a majority of cases.

Tests for hearing have greatly improved. They used to depend almost entirely on the human voice or on the ticking of a watch. It is said that the famous Vienna otologist, Politzer, who introduced the treatment of inflating the Eustachian tube with air for the treatment of chronic deafness, used to whisper a soft word, such as "Rochester", to his patients when they first came for treatment. After they had been under treatment a while he used a harsh word, such as "Chicago", which, of course, they heard better and thought that they were improved. He regarded this as a contribution to the psychology of treatment, which undoubtedly it was.

Alexander Graham Bell invented a device to make his deafened wife hear, and the result is the telephone.

We now have instruments, such as the audiometer, in which sound can be regulated exactly and a record in mathematical terms made of the degree of deafness and, in the course of time, of the degree of improvement. The patient places an ordinary telephone receiver connected with the audiometer to one ear; a lever is pressed down for the lowest tone (32 double vibrations), and the indicator moved until the patient hears the sound.

A loss of 10 to 15 per cent in hearing is normally within the safe hearing range. Any degree of deafness below this amount needs attention.

IVES TO SPEAK AT INSURANCE MEETING HERE

New York City Attorney To Give Address at Session Thursday, April 23

HENRY SWIFT IVES

Insurance agents of Southern Ohio will be hosts to the insurance agents of surrounding counties and to insurance buyers at a dinner meeting at the General Denver Hotel at 6:30 P. M. Thursday, April 23. The meeting will be one of a dozen to be held throughout Ohio in an effort to acquaint the insurance buying public with the economic and industrial importance of the insurance business. The principal speaker will be Henry Swift Ives, of New York City, special counsel of the Association of Casualty and Surety Executives. The Ohio meetings are being held under auspices of The Association of Insurance Agents, with the Insurance Federation of Ohio and the Ohio Association of Casualty and Surety Managers co-operating.

Two sessions will be held. At 4:30 P. M. there will be a meeting of the agents of the several counties comprising this district of the Ohio Association of Insurance Agents. At this session, agency matters will be discussed. The dinner meeting will follow.

The public generally will be invited to these affairs by the agents and company representatives participating. It is not the intention to advertise or promote any particular kind of insurance, but to, in a general way, acquaint those present with some of the major problems of that great business. Special attention, of course, will be directed towards the little understood casualty and surety lines with a view to acquainting not only the public, but the insurance agents as well, with thte great and fundamental economic and industrial importance of that branch of the business.

In addition to the address by Ives, there also will be local speakers.

Although for centuries it has been considered an ill omen for sailors to whistle aboard ship, this custom has its origin in the fact that whistling might be mistaken with signals from the boatswain's pipe or whistle.

AT THE MURPHY

This new starring vehicle which has Shirley Temple in another sparkling role makes its appearance at the Murphy Theater for four days starting Sunday, and should easily earn the popularity of her former pictures. As "Star" the popular little actress has a role that exceeds any of her others for the entertainment it provides, not only from the story angle, but also in the way of song and dance entertainment.

Shirley sings three numbers especially written for her and also introduces several tap routines with the loose jointed Buddy Ebsen as her partner. Their take-off of a dance team and the comical contrast of sizes is cleverly accomplished by the aid of some well placed barrels. Guy Kibbee and Slim Summerville divide acting honors among the adult members of the cast and inject the salty tang of the sea to their roles as members of the lighthouse vanguard. Sara Haden makes a despicable truant officer while June Lang and Jane Darwell supply good parts in a sincere way.

The story is of the old vintage, but so well directed and acted that it stands out above other Shirley Temple vehicles. In short it concerns an orphan youngster adopted by the lighthouse keeper and the battle over her education by the truant officer. The short program Broadway Brevities musical comedy is good for a lot of laughs. There is also a clever all-color cartoon and news-reel which completes an excellent offering at the Murphy.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

God the Forgiving Father

By the Rev. Alvin E. Bell And Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Luke 15:1-32

To teach us how God forgives sinners Jesus told the story of a shepherd who had one sheep lost from his flock of a hundred. He sought it until he found it, then carried it home with rejoicing.

He told another story of a boy who demanded of his father his share of property and went away into a far country to spend it wantonly. Afterwards he became destitute, but no one helped him.

He became servant to a man who made him tend hogs. He was often so hungry he felt like eating the husks the hogs ate. His new freedom was worse than obeying a loving father.

So he returned to his father not with any selfish "Give Me", but humbly saying "Make me as one of thy servants." His father met him with loving forgiveness. (GOLDEN TEXT—Psalm 103 13)

The Golden Text

Psalm 103:13—"Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him."

PUPILS EXAMINED AT BLANCHESTER SCHOOL

Dr. W. K. Ruble, County Health Commissioner, and Mrs. Vera J. Brown, county nurse, examined pupils in the Blanchester schools for communicable diseases Thursday.

God the Forgiving Father

Comments On the Sunday School Lesson

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 19, is Luke 15:1-32, especially 11-24, the Golden Text being Psalm 103:13, "Like as a father pitieth his children, so the Lord pitieth them that fear him.")

"NOW ALL THE publicans and sinners were drawing near unto Jesus to hear him." This should have been the occasion for great joy on the part of all truly religious folk. But instead we read that "both the Pharisees and the scribes murmured, saying, This man receiveth sinners and eateth with them." Here are the "elder brothers" who are angry at the Father's reception of the returning prodigals and refuse to come in or join in the joy of heaven and earth over the repentance and forgiveness of sinners.

The Lost Sheep and Coin

To rebuke these self-righteous unloving murmurers Jesus told the story of the lost sheep, the lost coin and the lost son. "What man of you, having a hundred sheep, and having lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness, and go after that which is lost, until he find it." Even if it be but a sheep that is lost the shepherd heart rests not until the lost is found. No matter how long it takes, nor what effort it requires the one per cent that is lost elicits one hundred per cent of the shepherd's interest and love. The only limit he sets is "until he find it". "And when he hath found it he layeth it on his shoulders rejoicing." There is no scourging or murmuring for its getting lost, only joy. That is the way it is in heaven when sinners repent. These murmuring enemies of Jesus were out of tune with heaven. This was Jesus' point in the story of the lost sheep and the lost coin.

The Lost Son

The picture he was painting of the self-righteous Pharisees and scribes came out in sharpest relief in his parable of the Prodigal Son and the elder brother. "A certain man had two sons; and the younger of them said to his father, father, give me the portion of thy substance that falleth to me." Here is the sin of self-seeking that is the root of most human ills. It is the "Give me" spirit of selfishness. There was no use to appeal to love of father or home. These stood for restraints to freedom and must be cast aside. But very shortly, in that far country of imagined freedom, the prodigal learned that living as one likes soon enslaves him to his likes and that sin's liberties are far more galling slavery than love's restraints. "He came to himself and said, How many hired servants of my father's have bread enough and to spare, and I perish here in hunger! I will arise and go to my father, and will say unto him, Father, I have sinned against heaven and in thy sight: I am no more worthy to be called thy son: make me as one of thy hired servants."

"Give Me" vs. "Make Me"

Here was a genuine conversion, a new creature. The self-seeking "Give me" has changed to the self-surrendered "Make me." The father recognized it as life from the dead: "This, my son, was dead, and is alive again." "And they began to be merry." But in this rejoicing the elder brother refused to have any part. "He was angry and would not go in." Self-righteous, unloving, he murmured against his father and brother even as the Pharisees and scribes were doing against Christ because "this man receiveth sinners and eateth with them."

Seen by a Kibitzer

More distribution trouble! Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Lacy and Mr. and Mrs. Chester Swaim, playing a foursome, had one of those evenings when neither side could make a bid more than a part score, even with apparently big hands that were dealt one after another.

As sure as one had a smash hand his partner drew a blank. Six and seven card suits were rampant with the opponents holding the other six or seven and enough other strength to stop game.

In one case, with what looked like a big hand, Mr. Lacy was only able to make game because of unfortunate distribution. Bidding stopped at three, enough for game with the part score already to the credit of the Lacys. Of course that was the time five was made, when not needed. With proper defense is there any chance for slam? Following is the hand.

Bidding went South, Mr. Lacy, one club. (If partner reads this as a three card minor bid he can always be told that it is a genuine club call by a rebid of the suit. Meanwhile he will keep the bidding open for one round). Mrs. Lacy bid one heart, Mr. Lacy two spades indicating by his jump the strength of his hand. Mrs. Lacy dutifully kept the bidding open by calling two no trump, whereupon Mr. Lacy said three clubs and his partner, knowing the trumps were safe and that game was assured, was content with this contract.

The fight was on between Mr. Lacy and Mr. Swaim who sat over him with a tenace and the club Jack. He led a diamond which was captured by the Ace in dummy. A club was led to the King and Mrs. Swaim's Queen fell setting up her partner's Jack.

At this moment if another club is led through a vain hope that trumps might be divided despite the fact the Queen had dropped, no game can be made. Mr. Lacy was not optimistic enough to take such a chance and immediately led the King of spades which was captured by West's Ace.

West can do no damage with any lead and followed with a diamond, ruffed by declarer, who led two rounds of spades ruffing the second, which was covered by West's Jack, in the dummy. The Ace of hearts was taken and declarer returned to his hand with a club then led another club to be taken by West's Jack. Anything West led, of course, could be trumped by declarer who then ran off the good spades to make five.

Play the hand from the second trick letting declarer lead trumps the second time. West has an easy defense and can ruin his opponent's chances by leading the third trump so that spades cannot be set up.

POWER-PACKED AND PRIMED FOR ACTION

WE'D like to show you what this Buick owner meant when he coined that phrase about the Buick Special!

We'd like to take you out—over any route you care to name—and show you what it's like to ride behind the ablest straight-eight engine in the world!

We'd like to level out a few hills for you—iron a couple of bad roads smooth—let you sample the velvet softness of hydraulic brakes as Buick knows how to build them.

We'll take you through traffic, so that you may see how this nimble, thrifty, mile-eating beauty saves your time at every traffic light, takes the corners without weave or tire-squeal, slides through rush-hour snarls like a rabbit through the brush!

We'd like you to see how obedient a Buick is—how completely it puts control in your hands—how reassuring it is to ride in it at any pace!

After that, if you like, we'd like to prove that you can afford a Buick—how very little more it costs than the lowest priced automobiles.

"Power-packed and primed for action!"—our hat's off to the man who put the words together. Come take a ride in a Series 40 Buick Special and see if you can find a phrase that describes it better!

$765* to $1945 are the list prices of the new Buicks at Flint, Mich., subject to change without notice. Standard and special accessories groups on all models at extra cost. All Buick prices include safety glass throughout as standard equipment

REDS WIN FIRST GAME OF YEAR FROM PITTSBURGH, 7 TO 4

DRESSEN CLUB BUNCHES HITS TO TAKE GAME

Cincinnati Scores Three In Third, Two in Seventh By Combining Blows

CINCINNATI, April 17—(AP)—Long-range hitting off big Jim Weaver brought the Reds their first victory of the year yesterday as they defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7 to 4.

After Kiki Cuyler, the first man to face Weaver, cracked out a homer in the first inning, the Reds bunched four blows, including a homer by Ival Goodman, George McQuinn's triple and Bill Myers' double, to score three times in the third.

Three successive singles, a walk and a force-out accounted for the fifth and sixth runs in the seventh and a pair of singles and a sacrifice added another in the eighth.

Al Hollingsworth held the Pirates to six hits, the first of which was Bud Hafey's second home run of the year in the first frame.

Yesterday's Stars

(By the Associated Press)

GEORGE SELKIRK, Yankees — Led 15-hit attack on Washington pitchers with home run, triple and single.

JIMMY FOXX, Red Sox—Hit first home run of season with two on against Athletics.

HANK LEIBER, Giants — His second double in the ninth drove in the two runs that defeated Brooklyn, 7-6.

JOHN MOORE, Phillies—Found Boston pitchers for homer and three singles in five times at bat.

LARRY FRENCH, Cubs— Kept Cards' 10 hits well scattered to beat Paul Dean.

KIKI CUYLER and IVAL GOODMAN, Reds — Their home runs were big factor in 7-4 victory over Pirates.

JUDGE PAYS BILL WHEN JURY SOILS CLOTHING

W. C. TO MEET EARLHAM TEAM

First Inter-Collegiate Track Meet of Season To Be Held at Richmond on Friday

Entries for Wilmington College's first inter-collegiate track meet of the season against Earlham College at Richmond, Indiana, Saturday were announced by Coach R. K. Miller, of W. C., Friday.

Bad weather has handicapped the Quaker track men from getting in condition but they are expected to have al almost even chance with the Indiana men.

According to reports from the Earlham campus Wilmington should be able to win most of the field events but the track events are more uncertain.

W. C. Holds Edge

Robert Halstead heaves the javelin about 145 feet for W. C., while the best the Earlham entry, Cresson, has done is 135 feet. In the shot put Bryce Bloom and David Bogar exceed their opponent, Hester, by about seven feet. Bloom and Bogar heaved the 16 pound shot 37 feet in the intramural meet Tuesday, while Hester can put it only about 30 feet.

Coach J. Owen Huntsman, of Earlham, has six lettermen around which to build his team but only one of them is outstanding. Herb Hadley is consistently around the 5 feet 10 inch mark in the high jump. The best Clarence Cordrey, W. C.'s high jumper, could do Tuesday was 5 feet 6 inches.

Earlham seems to have the edge in the 440 yard run as Wood does it in about 55 seconds while it took Donald Glass, Wilmington's runner, 64 seconds to run the distance on a slow track Tuesday.

Bull runs the high hurdles for Earlham in about 17 seconds and broad jumps around 20 feet. The best the W. C. broad jumpers could do Tuesday was 18 feet 9 inches.

Coppock Is Out

Coach Miller announced Friday that Roland Coppock, W. C.'s dash man, would be unable to compete Saturday because of a slight attack of appendicitis. Coppock won the 100 yard dash Tuesday and was second in the 220 yard dash.

Wilmington College's entries: pole vault, Hiatt, Cordrey, and Creamer; broad jump, Horton and Bloom; high jump, Cordrey, Nagley, and Whiteside; discuss, Collins, Bogar, and Bloom; shot put, Bloom and Bogar; javelin throw, Halstead, Bogar, and Bloom.

Mile run, Rudd and Phipps; two mile run, Rudd; 880 yard run, Bryant, Rudd, and Phipps; 440 yard dash, Glass and Bryant; 220 dash, Creamer; 100 yard dash, Creamer; high hurdles, Nagley and Barker; low hurdles, Nagley and Whiteside; relay, Collins, Barker, Nagley, and Glass.

AND NOW—QUADRUPLET LAMBS!

Plenty of mutton chops here

Quadruplet lambs, which sheep breeders declare are a rarity, have given Farmer Arthur M. Skidmore of Mt. Victory, O., quite an addition to his sheep flock. Besides the quadruplets, shown above with their mama, the first five sheep in the Skidmore flock presented their owner with a set of triplets and three pairs of twins. Farmer Skidmore remarks, "My sheep evidently are trying to supply the whole state of Ohio with mutton chops." —Central Press

MANAGERS SET UP WAILS AS INJURIES HIT

Joe Cronin, Ben Chapman And Dick Bartell Out of Game; Paul Dean Is Beaten

By ANDY CLARKE
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Baseball's professional mourners, the managers, already are wailing over a dose of sickness, injuries and form reversals.

With the season but three days old, Joe Cronin, the high-priced playing manager of the Red Sox, has a broken thumb, Ben Chapman, of the Yankees, is suffering from muscular pains in his side which caused him to retire from yesterday's game with Washington and Dick Bartell, of the Giants, is in the sick bay suffering from grippe.

Ace Hurlers Beaten

Causing further managerial headaches, many of the games' ace pitchers, including the irrepressible brothers Dean, are already smarting under defeats and a gust of typical Dodger dizziness has begun to swirl around Casey Stengel.

On the other side of the ledger, however, owner Tom Yawkey, of the Red Sox, saw Jimmy Foxx, who tied Hank Greenberg for home run honors with 36 each last year, start paying dividends in this respect yesterday with his round trip sock of the year.

Cronin is expected to be out of action for two or three weeks with a double fracture of the thumb, received as the Red Sox drubbed the Athletics, 10-4. In the second inning, Pinky Higgins charged into second base and Cronin, after juggling the ball, tagged him. The manager continued to play but when he reached the bench the member became so painful and a hurreied X-ray revealed the breaks. Eric McNair was moved over to Cronin's shortstop berth and Johnny Kroner, a rookie from Syracuse, played third.

Dean Socked

Paul Dean, who watched brother Jerome's dismal performance in the opening game, was the victim of a 5-3 defeat by the Cubs. The Cards established a two-run lead in the second inning but the Cubs came back in the fifth to score four and sew up the ball game.

There were shades of the days when Babe Herman did acrobatics in the far pastures for the Dodgers as the Giants notched their third straight win over Brooklyn, 7-6. The tying and winning runs crossed the plate in the ninth inning when Jordan and Lindstrom of the flatbushers collided while attempting to catch what appeared to be an easy fly.

Chapman left the fray in the fourth inning but the Yankees went on to defeat the Washington Senators, 6-5. Five pitchers, three for the Senators and two for the Yanks, saw service in this game and they yielded a total of 29 safeties.

Only 500 fans turned out to see the Phillies down the Boston Bees, 7-5. The Bees went into the eighth inning trailing 7-1, tallied three runs on a homer by Hal Lee and came back to get another in the ninth inning before their rally was checked.

The Tigers-Indians, Browns-White Sox games were postponed because of cold weather.

John Walger, a druggist of Durham, England, is generally credited with the invention of the friction match in 1827. Another Englishman, Isaac Holden, introduced the first sulphur matches about 1833.

ST. PAUL TRIMS COLUMBUS, 7 TO 6

Louisville Sets Milwaukee Back, 8 to 3

CHICAGO, April 17—(AP)— The Louisville Colonels and St. Paul Saints topped the American Association in the number of games won today, largely through a break from the weather man.

While Kansas City and Minneapolis were prevented by the cold from playing their scheduled games yesterday with Indianapolis and Toledo, respectively, Louisville was beating Milwaukee, 8-3, and St. Paul was trimming Columbus, 7-6. Kansas City and Minneapolis each have won two games and lost none.

The Colonels, in taking the victory which gave them the series with the Brewers, three games to one, had fine pitching from Ed Holley, who allowed seven hits and fanned 10.

St. Paul took advantage of misplays by the Red Birds to take their third victory in four games. Two errors in the ninth, with two out, paved the way for Larry Rosenthal's home run which drove in three r.ns.

SCOTT'S SCRAPBOOK by R. J. SCOTT

What is the Stresa agreement?

What is the world altitude record for manned balloons?

What is the common name for the North American bison?

Correctly Speaking—
"Continual" is used to describe a recurring incident, "continuous" to denote an unceasing action.

Words of Wisdom
Those who think must govern those who toil.—Goldsmith.

Today's Horoscope
Persons born on this day are usually hard to appreciate, largely because they are generally very intent on their own purpose and not apt to brook interruptions. However, they usually are intelligent, fond of music and generally successful.

Answers to Foregoing Questions
1. On April 14, 1935, following Germany's rearming, representatives of Italy, France and England met at Stresa, Italy, to reconfirm their mutual obligations under the Locarno treaty. This action was known as the Stresa agreement.
2. The record altitude for manned balloons is 13.71 miles (72,395 feet).
3. It is commonly known as the buffalo.

CINCINNATI WILL OPEN WAR ON RATS

$1,000,000 Damage Caused By Rats in Year

CINCINNATI, April 17—(AP)—Cincinnati sent a modern "Pied Piper of Hamlin" to war today against its rat population.

Estimating the number of rats in the city at 500,000, the Bureau of Sanitation started distribution among householders of 65,000 circulars explaining the modern method for "destruction of rats."

It placed at $2 a year the cost to each Cincinnati citizen of property destroyed by the rats and said the time had come when the loss of $1,000,000 a year should be halted.

UNION SERVICES TO BE HELD AT MARTINSVILLE

Rev. Robert M. Jones, pastor of Martinsville Friends Church, will speak at union services in Martinsville Church of Christ Sunday at 7:30 P. M.

The FARMALL Tractor is the Best Investment Any Row-Crop Farmer Can Make

THE owner of a McCormick-Deering Farmall Tractor has a tremendous advantage in row-crop farming. This original all-purpose tractor works so economically on every farm job — whether it's plowing, planting, cultivating, haying, harvesting, corn picking, etc.—that no row-crop farmer can afford to be without it. Now is the time to invest in Farmall power—you'll wonder why you didn't buy it long ago.

Come in and find out what the McCormick-Deering Farmall can do for you. There are two other Farmall sizes—the smaller Farmall 12 and the 3-plow Farmall.

...This fact is of Money-Saving importance to you

FRIGIDAIRE WITH THE "METER-MISER"

MEETS ALL 5 STANDARDS FOR REFRIGERATOR BUYING

Come in and let us show you the PROOF of ALL FIVE!

1. Proof of LOWER OPERATING COST
2. Proof of SAFER FOOD PROTECTION
3. Proof of FASTER FREEZING—MORE ICE
4. Proof of MORE USABILITY
5. Proof of FIVE-YEAR PROTECTION PLAN

MEET THE "Meter-Miser"

Quiet • Unseen • Trouble-free

IT CUTS CURRENT COST TO THE BONE

The new Frigidaire's spectacular cold-making unit gives more cold for less cost, because of outstanding design with only three moving parts! Permanently oiled, precision built, completely sealed against moisture and dirt.

On Guard!

Frigidaire builds this Food-Safety Indicator right into the cabinet—visible proof that foods are kept at Safety-Zone Temperature, below 50 degrees and above 32 degrees.

• Here's a real "refrigerated pantry"—thrilling both in beauty and usability. Wider, roomier, with much more shelf space in front; Full-Width Sliding Shelves, Portable Utility Shelf and scores of other advantages.

But Frigidaire's value does not stop there. It meets not only one or two standards, but ALL FIVE you must have to get the most out of electric refrigeration.

Come in and let us prove to you how miserly Frigidaire is with current. How it keeps foods safer, freezes more ice—faster, and gives Five-Year Protection on the sealed-in mechanism for only Five Dollars included in the purchase price.

These are the reasons why Frigidaire actually saves enough to pay for itself and pay you a profit besides! Come in and see the PROOF!
